French philosopher and university lecturer.

- Elena Popova

Director, Children's Art School "Umay", Almaty.

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to recommend Maria Sverdlik for a position as an art educator. I have followed her artistic practice for several years.

What struck me in our work together was how she approaches an idea: she takes the time to work it through before settling on a form, moving between sculpture, digital media, and art direction while keeping a coherent visual language throughout. She understands the relationship between material and concept, between craftsmanship and meaning.

She is patient in her process and precise in her decisions. These are not common qualities.

I believe she has much to offer as an artist and educator.

Sincerely,

Zorikto Dorzhiev

Recommendation Letter

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to support Maria's Sverdlik application for a position as an art educator.

I have known Maria for some time and have had the opportunity to discuss her work and ideas on several occasions. What stands out to me is her broad intellectual scope and rigorous academic training, which make her exceptionally well-prepared for working with complex concepts and ideas. Maria demonstrates a deep and mature understanding across a range of fields, including history, cultural studies, philosophy, and visual culture. Her background gives her approach real depth, rather than being a matter of personal taste alone.

In conversation, she shows real intellectual curiosity. She listens closely, takes other people's reasoning seriously, and is willing to sit with a problem rather than rush toward an answer. This is not something I encounter often, even among people who work professionally with ideas.

Maria has the rare capacity to translate complex cultural concepts into engaging educational experiences. Her presence in a classroom will undoubtedly cultivate an environment that inspires intellectual autonomy and mature critical reflection in her students.

To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to recommend Maria Sverdlik for a position as an Art Teacher.

I have known Maria as a dedicated, responsible, and highly professional educator. She approaches her work with care, prepares thoroughly for every project, and consistently demonstrates a strong sense of responsibility toward both students and colleagues.

Maria has a broad range of teaching expertise. She teaches drawing, painting, composition, illustration, graphic arts, and various forms of applied arts with confidence and professionalism. Her extensive artistic background allows her to design engaging lessons that balance technical foundations with creativity and individual expression. She is equally comfortable working with students of different ages and abilities, adapting her teaching methods to meet their needs.

Maria is a reliable and well-organized teacher who approaches her work with professionalism and consistency. She manages the learning process confidently, maintains high standards in the classroom, and builds positive working relationships with both students and colleagues.

As a colleague, Maria is cooperative, dependable, and open to professional dialogue. She responds thoughtfully to feedback, contributes positively to collaborative projects, and demonstrates a genuine commitment to continuous professional development.

I am confident that Maria will make a valuable contribution to any international school. She combines artistic expertise with professionalism, integrity, and a sincere commitment to high-quality art education.

I recommend Maria with confidence.

Sincerely,

Elena Popova
